EXPERIENCE

Blackwell Research Scholar

Jun. 2026 – Present

University of Illinois Department of Statistics

Champaign, IL

- Developed a simulation framework for analyzing Gjive, a low-rank data integration algorithm, across high-dimensional datasets and perturbed experimental settings.
- Optimized numerical linear algebra pipelines using IRLB-based truncated SVD and parallelized matrix decompositions, reducing simulation runtime by 66%
- Applied Gjive to fMRI connectivity data (734 subjects, 20K features) to investigate interpretable low-rank representations associated with autism-related phenotypes.

Undergraduate Researcher

Jan. 2026 – May 2026

Illinois Mathematics Lab

Champaign, IL

- Analyzed end-of-season collapse patterns in win/loss sequences across the NBA, MLB, and European soccer leagues.
- Co-developed a data engineering pipeline and database schema integrating 500,000+ games from multiple sources.
- Organized a collaborative repository of 300+ notebooks, scripts, datasets, and figures across the research team.
- Accelerated simulation-heavy outputs by 18× through vectorized computations.
